

On the participation of the French Armed Forces on the side of Ukraine

27 marca 2024

French troops may come into direct conflict with Russian troops if the Ukrainian front collapses, LCI TV channel reports, citing military sources, discussing possible scenarios for sending French soldiers to Ukraine.

According to the first scenario, France will build military factories in Ukraine, which will require the participation of French engineers.

According to the second, the French military will carry out mine clearance work, as well as train the Ukrainian Armed Forces.

The third scenario is the defense of Odessa, in which French troops could be deployed primarily to install an air defense system. Under this option, the French could enter the conflict as a belligerent allied to Kiev if the military “shoots down an enemy missile.”

The fourth scenario is that the French army creates a protective zone. That is, it is deploying troops to relieve the Ukrainians of some missions.... This option means crossing the threshold of participation as an allied belligerent...

The fifth scenario is a confrontation in the trenches, that is, French troops fight the Russians on the side of the Ukrainians. The threshold for participation as an allied belligerent has been reached and exceeded. In the language of the military – the third world war.

It is not known yet which option Macron will choose.

Author: Timoschuk
Source: WolneMedia.net